BREWERY SQUARE

A vibrant new quarter brings a Covent Garden feel to Dorset’s County Town. Named after its roots, this is where Eldridge Pope brewed their famous ales from 1880 until the late 1990s. Today, Brewery Square is a popular shopping and leisure destination where modern restaurants, cafes, bars, brasseries and one of Dorchester’s two cinemas provide entertainment. It’s a great spot for busy parents to take a little time out as their children enjoy splashing in the fountains.

PRINCE CHARLES’ POUNDisbury

A visit to Poundbury is like a visit to a living film-set. The mid-90s brainchild of Prince Charles has become a stylish, eco-friendly model village quite unlike anywhere else. Its quintessential English charm has to be experienced to be believed. Grand imposing mansions mix with homely traditional cottages. Simply wander its interesting architecture where quirky and specialist shops invite and eateries tempt. Fresh local produce is also up for grabs at the farmers’ market on the first Saturday of each month.

PARKING IN DORCHESTER

Dorchester has three Long Stay car parks and six Shoppers’ car parks. All car parks are operated on a Pay and Display basis.

Disabled Badge Holders: Please refer to the disabled parking notices on display in each car park.

Larger Vehicles: Lorries, coaches, motorhomes, caravans, caravanettes, trailers etc can be accommodated at the Top O’Town car park in the commercial area/coach park.

For further information: Contact Parking Services on 01305 251010.

Call in at the Tourist Information Centre where friendly staff are keen to help you make the most of your visit. You can pick up leaflets, maps and guides including a Discover Dorchester leaflet which contains four walks around the town’s key sites.

Horrible Histories

MAIDEN CASTLE

Ancient Britain is evoked in all its mist-swathed, sword-happy glory at Maiden Castle, to the south of the town. This spectacular hill-fort dates back 6000 years and is the largest in Europe. Following the Roman invasion in AD 43, a new town of Dumnonia was established as a major garrison town and trading centre.

MAUMBURY RINGS

The mysterious 5000 year old Neolithic Henge has served important functions throughout all of its history. The Romans adapted it into an amphitheatre, Parliamentarians used it as a fort during the Civil War, and, during the 18th century it was the end of the line for those sent to the gallows.

THE HANGING JUDGE

In 1685, ‘Bloody Assize’ Judge Jeffreys notoriously hanged people and stuck their body parts around the town as a punishment to supporters of the Duke of Monmouth’s rebellion. Whilst we are on this grisly subject, if you take a walk along the River Frome, you’ll discover a charming thatched cottage whose name betrays its murky past – Hangman’s Cottage. This privately owned home once belonged to the town’s hangman - it is said that he kept his rope under the eaves.

SHIRE HALL DORSET

1854 saw the Tolpuddle Martyrs flex their industrial muscle and get deported for doing so. Following Heritage Lottery Funding, the site of their trial is to be transformed into a visitor attraction, Shire Hall Dorset, due to open to the public in 2018.

This is the landscape that novelist Thomas Hardy used time and again as a backdrop for his tales of love and tragedy. Dorchester is of course the ‘Casterbridge’ featured in his novels and you will find references to Hardy throughout the town.

You can visit his cottage birthplace at nearby Higher Bockhampton and Hardy’s sophisticated Victorian town house on the eastern outskirts of the town. Both are run by the National Trust, please check their website for opening times or ask at the Tourist Information Centre.

Hardy’s study has been re-created at the Dorset County Museum in High West Street where the world’s largest collection of his personal possessions is on display.
